Interior designer Valerie Tatalovich's love of design and passion for her work has inspired her to expand her Pennsylvania-based business to include an interior design studio and showroom in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Valerie M. Interiors is a treasure-trove of resources, showcasing the finest fabrics, exquisite floor and wall coverings, furniture and home furnishings – all displayed with accessories from around the world. Beautiful vignettes further showcase drapery, wall treatments, and European antiques. Her affiliation with Alan Gleason, owner of Argosy Antiques, and Ken Blackburn, renowned antiques restorer, makes this showroom a “must-see” on Dixie Hwy.

An allied member of ASID, Valerie brings to the area more than 30 years of experience in the field of interior design. Her extensive work experience includes upscale residential designs – the foundation of her work – in addition to such noteworthy commercial projects as Oakmont Country Club, The Ronald McDonald House, a four-ballroom banquet facility, funeral homes, large office spaces and a relocation project of 13 families from Tokyo. Valerie and her team of qualified professionals have successfully coordinated projects from concept to completion in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Florida and the Caribbean.

Valerie believes that designing is a process, not an event, and that the most satisfying designs are those that evolve over time. “It is the process that breathes life and personality into the design,” Valerie says of the work that she does.

As families find themselves “nesting” more and more, “livable” spaces are becoming increasingly important. Working hand-in-hand with clients, Valerie and her team ensure every project is personalized to reflect their tastes and lifestyles. Because of Valerie's extraordinary vision and sincere commitment to every detail of each project, clients confidently put their faith and trust in her abilities.
